

Resources for students and families: how to find games, reading and writing ideas, free audiobooks, videos of your favourite authors, and mind-blowing websites.

National Literacy Trust Family Zone,

Split up by age group, ideas and guidance for simple activities to engage children at home, and benefit their reading, writing and language development.

Free reading and writing resources, audiobooks, videos, competitions and reading challenges. The Audible audio books are all free while schools are closed.

and see which authors are reading their books aloud for you!

School Library Association

<https://www.sla.org.uk/school-closure-resources>

Look under Authors and illustrators to see who is offering readings, drawing or other content. Is your favourite author there?

Got cabin fever? Check out the list under 'Experiences' and see where in the world you can go (virtually, or course)!

And from Matt Imrie at the Teen Librarian blog
